

NHMRC Executive Remuneration 2018-19

As a Commonwealth Entity we provide an annual update on the remuneration paid to the executives in NHMRC. Details for the 2018-19 reporting period are outlined in Table A below.

Table A

Total remuneration	No. Executive	Average Reportable Salary ($)	Average Contributed superannuation ($)	Average Allowances ($)	Average bonus paid ($)	Long Service Leave ($)	Average Termination Benefits ($)	Average Total remuneration ($)
$200,000 and less	5	$112,065	$16,733	$12,819	-	$2,918	-	$144,535
$225,001 to $250,000	1	$184,569	$33,373	-	-	$4,776	-	$222,718
$275,001 to $300,000	2	$215,052	$35,391	$24,920	-	$5,565	-	$280,028
$525,000 to $550,000	1	$463,025	$56,759	-	-	$11,982	-	$531,766
$800,000 to $825,000	1	$184,982	$28,407	-	-	$419,286	$247,116	$811,842

Note: Table A includes the average annual reportable remuneration paid to: substantive executives, executives who have ceased during the period and officers who received higher duties allowance at the senior executive services level for a period greater than three months during this reporting period.

Total executive and key management personnel: 10

Australian Government

National Health and Medical Research Council

26 July 2019

Table B includes details for other staff whose reportable remuneration was $200,001 or more for the financial period and were not deployed outside of Australia during the reporting period.

Table B: Not applicable.

Commonwealth entities Executive Remuneration Reporting Guide for Annual Reports (No.138) The disclosures required by the PGPA Rule are ones that are 'required or authorised by or under an Australian law' for the purposes of the Privacy Act 1988 (see in particular Australian Privacy Principle 6.2(b)). As such, there is no requirement for Commonwealth entities to obtain the permission of the persons covered by the disclosures.